098/16 – CO'S CORNER

There have been a number of competitions running over the last few months and I am most impressed by the calibre of individuals and teams who are put forward in this region to represent their corps and squadrons at regattas, marksmanship competitions, orienteering events, drill competitions, first aid competitions, band displays, biathlon competitions and all of the other many events that take place. Thank you to all of the adult leaders who step up and commit the time and talent to make these training activities happen. Your commitment enhances the great experiences that our cadets enjoy. Congratulations to all of the cadets who have participated and to those who have taken home trophies and awards! I know there are still a few more competitions running as the training years winds down, so I send my best wishes for those who still have opportunities to participate.

Annual Ceremonial Reviews are nearly upon us. I know that every corps and squadron is working hard to put on a great year-end display for the parents and community supporters who attend these outstanding parades. I will be attending a few, and although I would I could be there to see each of your ACRs, time and geographics obviously don't allow for this. Thank you to all who have extended an invite to me and to the RCSU (Pac) staff – know that we wish you all the very best in your year-end ACRs.
